1. Installation the addon manager

SMOSK does not need to be installed, it is 100% portable. Just unzip addonmanager.zip to any directory you like and run  SMOSK.exe

2. Updating the addon manager

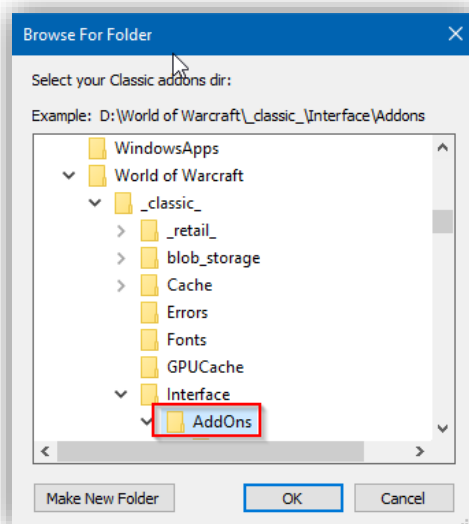

SMOSK has a build in updater. When an update is available the version text in the bottom right corner will change to [Update available] and turn orange. Clicking the text launches the updater.

You can also run it manually with  Update_SMOSK.exe

3. First start and importing existing addons

The first time you start SMOSK, click the button WoW Classic addons path and select your `_classic_\interface\addons` directory.

If you have any manually installed addons already (or addons installed by the Twitch client) click in the bottom right corner. This will match all folder names in your addons directory to possible matches on CurseForge.

Since these names are not always a perfect match with the actual project name on CurseForge some addons might not get imported.

If you're missing something that you know is installed, click Search for it and install. Installing an addon you already have updates it with the latest version.

SMOSK does NOT remove any addon settings. Even if you delete an addon with SMOSK the settings remain in the WTF folder. If you install the addon again previous settings will be loaded.

4. Installing new addons

Searching for new addons and installing them is very easy and fast.

Just click  and search for the addon you want.

Select it in the list and click .

5. Realm specific buff schedules

If your realm has a buff schedule but is not listed in the dropdown menu, ping me on Discord @ Johan E#0524 and i can add it.

6. Updating addons

When addons have available updates, list entries will get a orange background and they will be moved to the top of the list. If you want to update all click . This will only update addons that have an update available.

If you want to update specific addons or just reinstall select any number of addons in the list and click

7. Removing addons

Select any number of addons in the list and click

This will remove the addon from your /interface/addons directory.

It will NOT remove any settings. If you deleted something by mistake, don't panic. Just install the addon again (4.) and your settings will still be there.
